In Residential Sections.

Attention has been called, however, to conditions in those parts of the citysaid to be not so congested, but in reality greatly dangerous to life and limb because people often allow their vigilance to relax.

Numerous instances of vehicles standing with their left wheels to the curb or failing to make the proper curve in turning to the left have been noted. In some of the suburban parts of the city and in some instances where the neighborhoods are not so thickly settled. it is said carelessness on the part of vehicle drivers reaches a maximum and the danger is often augmented by the fact that the children in many instances play in the street.
